Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the housing must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-8 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. D483,384. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a one-piece upper door storage compartment including a first section with a full depth and a second section with a second depth less than half the first depth (see Fig. 2 of patent); the sections having substantially equal lengths (see Fig. 2 of patent). In between the sections is an intermediate wall with a horizontal reinforcing web (see Figs. 1 and 3). Note: since the patent is a design patent, what is shown in the figures is what is covered by the claim. Figs 2 meeting the limitations found in claims of the instant invention.

For claim 3, the patent fails to teach that the sections have different lengths. However, it would have been an obvious design consideration to one having ordinary skill in the art to dimension the first section as desired, including forming the compartments with different lengths, depending on the desired need of the person designing/constructing the section (and/or refrigerator), e.g. depending on intended storage uses, for aesthetic reasons, etc.

For claim 8, the patent fails to show a refrigerator door or housing. However, the shelf is disclosed as being a refrigerator shelf in the claim. Therefore, it would have been an obvious design consideration to one having ordinary skill in the art to use the shelf on the door of a refrigerator (with a housing and other door compartments), depending on the desired need of the person using the shelf or designing the refrigerator.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Johnson et al (6,085,542). Johnson teaches a refrigerator having a door with door storage compartments. The one-piece upper compartment includes a first section with a full depth and a second section with a second depth less than half the first depth; the sections having substantially equal lengths.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson. As stated above, Johnson teaches the limitations of claim 1, including two sections of a compartment with substantially equal lengths. For claim 3, Johnson fails to teach that the sections have different lengths. However, it would have been an obvious design consideration to one having ordinary skill in the art to dimension the first section as desired, including forming the compartments with different lengths, depending on the desired need of the person designing/constructing the section (and/or refrigerator), e.g. depending on intended storage uses, for aesthetic reasons, etc.

Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson in view of Bales (1,758,307). As stated above, Johnson teaches the limitations of claim 1, including two sections of a compartment with substantially equal lengths. The sections are also shown as being boxed shaped (hollow portion extending under horizontal portion; see Fig. 4a). For claims 5-7, Johnson fails to teach that the sections have an intermediate wall there between. The wall including a horizontal reinforcing web. Bales teaches an intermediate wall (12) including a horizontal reinforcing web (16). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to add an intermediate wall, such as is taught by Bales, in between the sections, to provide separate storage compartments using the same structure, to divide contents on the sections, etc.
